

NBCE Director of Testing Participates In Test Security Webinar

Greeley, Co.--National Board of Chiropractic Examiners (NBCE) Assistant Executive Director and Director of Testing Dr. Mark G. Christensen recently participated as one of four panel members in a webinar to educate testing organizations about the prevention and mitigation of cheating.

The webinar host, Caveon Test Security, highlighted the testing experiences from three leading testing programs, including the NBCE. The focus of the webinar was on designing pre- and post-security programs to ensure organizational integrity in fair and valid testing. Participants from nearly 90 organizations registered for the webinar.

Dr. Christensen specifically spoke about the value of data forensics, the use of statistical models to detect test-taker patterns that provide strong evidence that some examinees did not respond to test questions independent of other examinees. A psychometrician by training, Dr. Christensen has led the written testing programs at the NBCE for more than 28 years.
